WHEELING, JUNE 16, 1891.

Long Life to Bethany.

Bethany College, in its long and honorable career of half a century, has earned the honors which alumni and admiring friends are heaping on it in this jubilee time.

In all these years Bethany has shed its light over a wide area; and while it is not counted among the greatest colleges, it is one of the best by reason of the solid and thorough character of its work and the moral atmosphere which envelops it.

An institution of this character, which means all that Bethany means to the community which comes in closest contact with it, is worthy of the extended attention given it in to-day's INTELLIGENCER.

A Funny Little Scheme.

The meeting of politicians in Indianapolis, the home of the President, to arrange a Blaine campaign, does not look well. If such a meeting was to be held, it would have been more seemly to hold it elsewhere. This, however, is not the chief objection. There is no need for a handful of politicians to get together to set up the pins for Mr. Blaine. The Blaine sentiment in the Republican party needs no stimulating. Mr. Blaine is already nominated if he will accept.

It is as it was in 1888, only more so. Then it required the best work of Mr. Blaine's best friends to prevent his nomination. Since 1888 Mr. Blaine has grown more than any dozen public men put together. Circumstances have favored him, and his real greatness has been shown in his readiness to meet each new circumstance in a way that has won the admiration of the country.

If Blaine were nominated in 1892 the opposition could say nothing against him that was not said in 1884, when he narrowly missed election by a combination of casualties such as can never happen again. On the other hand all that was said for him in 1884 can be said now, with the addition of all that has since added to his fame.

The Republican party understands the situation and will nominate Mr. Blaine if he will permit. The politicians who met at Indianapolis must know this, and if there movement have any real significance it must be as a movement in their own interest.

Foreseeing Mr. Blaine's nomination they may have highly resolved to get in position to set themselves up as the original Blaine men for 1892, having due regard to the leaves and fishes.

The Direct Tax Resolution.

West Virginia's share of the direct tax ordered by Congress to be paid, has got into a strange tangle. The certified copy of the resolution of the Legislature accepting the appropriation did not get forth that the governor was authorized to accept the money. This fact being pointed out, ex-Governor Wilson, who has a handsome fee involved, said that he would at once cause to be forwarded to Washington another certified copy containing the omitted essential. Up to date no such amended certificate has been seen in Washington, and it is assumed that there is no original to base it on.

The legislation accepting the appropriation is known as House Joint Resolution No. 34. It was introduced by Col. White, of Ohio county, March 3, 1891, as the House Journal for that day shows, and by him followed up to its passage. And here is the very grant of authority which is not found in the certified copy sent to Washington:

That the Governor of the State of West Virginia is hereby authorized to receive said money and to pay the same to the State of West Virginia for the use and purposes as are in said Act of Congress set forth.

The resolution was adopted by the House March 11 and by the Senate March 13. So says the record. Why the certified copy does not say so, and why no certified copy that does say so has been sent to Washington, are incomprehensible features of the case.

The Prince and the Babbling Brooke.

The name of the person who revealed the Gordon-Cumming baccarat compact of secrecy was not revealed in court. But it is well known that the Prince of Wales told Lady Brooke and that her ladyship gave it away. Lady Brooke is proud of her relations with the heir apparent, and it tickled her vanity to be able to tell the secret confided to her by so notable a person. So her ladyship has come to be called the "babbling Brooke."

Lord Brooke has suddenly aroused himself and he is not proud of the relations of the Prince of Wales with his wife. He feels so much the other way that he is said to be about to sue for a divorce, naming as co-respondent no less a person than the Prince of Wales. If Lady Brooke is not a fit subject to play a star role in a divorce court she is much belied by the tongue of gossip and by the behavior of the Prince of Wales concerning her. Lady Brooke is not the first English woman bearing a title to be brought into a divorce court, and the public has little business with her.

The British public has its hands full of business with the Prince of Wales. He is known to be a libertine and a gambler. To convict him of the charge conveyed in such proceedings as Lord Brooke is about to begin, following the Tranby Croft revelations, would be to lay another and a heavy straw on the back of the patient but now restive British camel.

A Day of Miracles.

If we are to believe half of the reports, the day of miracles is by no means over. Water is not turned into wine and the dead are not raised from the tomb; but scarcely less miraculous are the reported cures of the time. They occur among Catholics, among Protestants, among people whose creed seems to be faith cure and nothing more and who set up each alleged cure as a new ornament to their fetish.

This sort of thing comes and goes, at longer or shorter intervals, but the world goes on about as before. Men and women sicken and recover, or sicken and die, without any special regard to the miraculous. If miracles are being performed for the benefit of the sick, the select sick are very few.

The great body of mankind spin their slender thread and snap it all too short. The physician does the best he can for his patient, and in time becomes a patient himself. "All flesh is grass," and some of it won't make good hay.

The Swiss Railway Disaster.

Foreign critics are quick to find in every American railway disaster some glaring defect in the work or the manner of operating. They have their own troubles on the other side of the ocean. This time it is a railway bridge that gives way, resulting in terrible slaughter of pleasure-seekers.

The collapse of the iron superstructure recalls the charge against the second iron manufacturing establishment in Germany, that it has been turning out large quantities of railway work far below the government standard and bearing forged test marks.

Switzerland is not Germany, but what happens in one country may happen in another, and it may be that German manufacturers get contracts in Switzerland.

The Supreme Court of Appeals holds that a man cannot be restrained, by injunction from selling on certain premises until he has been convicted of selling on those premises. This is a reasonable view, although the character of the person and his known practice of violating the law may be strong presumption against him.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming says politely but flatly to his bride's kinfolk that she is old enough to handle her own canoe. If any who were waiting to divide her raiment see disappointment staring them in the face, Sir William is unable to share their grief.

In the region of the north pole they get their ice cream without labor. At this time of the year they roll in it and have no use for fans. What a blessed land.

It is observed that as time wears on the President shows more willingness to talk politics with politicians. This is great weather for thawing out.

This is a great year for out-door sports. The American people are limbering up.

OHIO REPUBLICANS

Gathering for To-day's Convention—Sherman is There.

COLUMBUS, June 15.—Nearly all the candidates with many supporters have arrived for the Republican State convention, which convenes at 2 p. m. tomorrow, and will continue through Wednesday.

Major McKinley, who is to be nominated for Governor, will arrive on a special train from Canton to-morrow noon. A number of Stark county clubs and the Cleveland delegation will come. Senator Sherman is announced to come down from Mansfield to-morrow morning. The indications point to a lively contest for some of the lesser places on the ticket. The names of the former candidates for Lieutenant-Governor are meeting with much favor, but it is not certain that one representing this element will be chosen.

LATER—Delegations from several parts of the State arrived on the afternoon trains, and among other prominent gentlemen is Senator Sherman, who was not expected before to-morrow. Sherman was tendered a reception at the Republican League rooms, and made a brief speech of a complimentary character.

Candidates for the several offices have opened headquarters, and their friends are numerous and active. For Lieutenant-Governor it is thought C. P. Griffon, of Toledo, has the lead in the race, though there is a tendency to select a farmer. There is an undercurrent of information that there will be a contest for the permanent chairmanship of the convention.

The friends of Asa Bushnell, of Springfield, will urge him for the place and the friends of Senator Sherman expect he would be accorded the honor. It is hardly thought the contest will be carried to the convention. The district meeting will be held to-morrow morning for the selection of committees, to be reported to the convention in the afternoon.

THE PRINCE APOLOGIZES.

Sir Edward Stanhope Makes an Humble Admission for His Royal Highness.

LONDON, June 15.—Hon. Edward Stanhope, Secretary of the State for War, replying to-day in the House of Commons to a question put by Mr. Wm. Summers (Gladstone Liberal) in regard to the Baccarat scandal, said that Sir William Gordon-Cumming was the chief person who had broken faith because he did not report the case to his commanding officer. If any offence was committed by any other person, it could only have consisted in advising and pressing him to take a different course than laid down by the army regulations. Of the three officers concerned Gen. Owen Williams was a retired officer of the army and was, therefore, not subject to the regulations, but the other two—Field Marshal, the Prince of Wales and Lieutenant Berkeley Levett—undoubtedly were. The former, said Mr. Stanhope, on looking back at all the circumstances of the case, had authorized him, Mr. Stanhope, to say that he now saw an error of judgment had been committed.

Lieutenant Berkeley Levett, on the other hand, continued Mr. Stanhope, had written a letter to his commanding officer expressing deep regret that he had not acted in accordance with the army regulations.

Consequently, said the Secretary of War in conclusion, it was not proposed to take any further action in the matter.

Mr. Henry Peyton Cobb, member for the Rugby division of Warwickshire, who had announced his intention of questioning the Secretary of War as to what action he intended to take in regard to the Prince of Wales, General Sir William Gordon-Cumming, said that he had signed the document which allowed Sir William Gordon-Cumming to remain an officer in the British Army, although he was believed to have cheated at cards, etc., did not, in view of Mr. Stanhope's statement, put the question he had prepared.

DEFENDS THE PRINCE.

The Daily News, of London, Continues Its Defense of Wales.

LONDON, June 15.—The Daily News continues to defend the Prince of Wales. It says: The suggestion that the Prince should have played the part of informer and peacher upon his old friends, when in trouble, is utterly preposterous. No such duty should be cast upon men of honor, and certainly the Queen's regulations do not cast it. The imputation is that the Prince of Wales and General Owen Williams conspired to conceal, not a crime, but an accusation, which it was forced William Gordon-Cumming himself to bring under notice of his commanding officer.

The Daily News thinks the case would be met, if the Duke of Cambridge, as commander-in-chief of the forces, should signify his disapproval of the document signed at Tranby Croft. The paper blames Lord Coventry for dragging the Prince into the scandal, instead of doing his duty in keeping him out of it.

Miss Garner Her Own Boss.

LONDON, June 15.—Sir William Gordon-Cumming has written a letter to the Associated Press in regard to statements made in the New York Herald of June 12 by a member of the Garner family. These statements, cabled to this country, were to the effect that none of Miss Garner's relatives were present at the wedding. Sir William says that these statements are correct, adding: "Lady Gordon-Cumming did not consult any member of her family on the subject of her engagement to me, nor was there any necessity to do so."

Steamship News.

LIVERPOOL, June 15.—The Inman line steamer City of Richmond, from New York, June 3, which arrived at Queens town on Sunday morning, and reported that an alarming fire broke out in her hold June 9, during a heavy gale, reached this port at 5:30 this morning. All the passengers were enjoying good health, and in spite of the alarm caused by the conflagration which broke out among the cotton bales in the steamer's hold, full details of which have already been cabled to New York, only a few of the passengers disembarked at Queenstown.

New York, June 15.—Arrived, steamer Aurania, from Liverpool.

Mr. Gladstone Better.

LONDON, June 15.—Mr. Gladstone, who has been slightly indisposed for some days past, is improving. He is still confined to his house.

This Park, Ohio county's most pleasant resort, will be in possession of the Grocer and his friends on Thursday, June 18. The Grocers, in conjunction with the park management, will make the day enjoyable to one and all. Positively the best of order will be maintained.

IF your name is not on the INTELLIGENCER'S Subscription Books make haste to get it on the list. Notwithstanding increased size and general improvement there is no increase in price. Still better things are to come.

A CONCLAVE OF KICKERS.

The People who use Water Motors Object to the Increase.

There was a well attended meeting at the McLure house last night of merchants and others who use water motors to run elevators or for other purposes, to take action on the increase of charges ordered by the Water Board for water used in motors. Mr. Henry M. Ott was called to the chair and Mr. F. H. Lange made secretary.

There was a very free interchange of views on the subject nearest at heart, and it was developed that some owners of water motors had been subjected to an increase of only twenty-five per cent, while others had been jumped up 100. One firm which has been paying $500 has been notified that hereafter it will be taxed $1,000. It was also alleged that there was a lack of system about the increases, and that a firm which uses much more water than a near neighbor pays 33 per cent less for its motor.

A committee was appointed, consisting of Joseph Speidel, Hullihen Quarrier, Henry Baer, F. H. Lange, George House, William Ellingham, James Riley and Harry W. McLure, to confer with the City Water Board on the subject. This committee will meet at Neill & Ellingham's office at 3:30 p. m. to-day to formulate a plan of procedure.

ESCAPED FROM AN OFFICER.

A Very Much Alive Dead Drunk Escapes by a Trick.

Officer Devlin, of the Eighth ward, had an experience yesterday that will render him suspicious of the next man who shams drunkenness. He found Bob O'Hare, a celebrated South Side character, lying down apparently dead drunk. He couldn't get up, and after dragging him a piece the officer called for assistance. A man helped him to raise O'Hare on his feet, and just about the time he was straightened up, the drunken man buffed Devlin in the mouth, and also struck the helper, who having an appointment elsewhere, started off on a run. Devlin, now left alone, got O'Hare down, when the latter gave him a vicious kick, which doubled the officer up. O'Hare ran, with the officer after him, but owing to the pain caused by the brutal kick, the latter could not follow very fast, and the fellow escaped. O'Hare is a great man to kick, having laid out another officer in the same way some time ago. He had not been arrested up to a late hour last night.

YOUNG BERTRAM DEAD.

The Kicks he Received from His Colt Prove Fatal.

Charles Bertram, of Bellaire, who was kicked by his colt while out looking at it on Sunday morning last, mentioned of which was made in yesterday's INTELLIGENCER, died at his home yesterday morning from the effects of the kick. The colt had a neck yoke on and he made a pass at it to examine the yoke, when the colt, which is only two years old, wheeled and kicked him near the heart several times. This is a particularly bad blow to this family. Only a few weeks ago they buried another son, a young man who died suddenly with the grip. The family have the sympathy of the community. Internal hemorrhage was the cause of Charles's death.

A New Teller Elected.

Mr. S. Irwin Singleton, teller at the Dollar Savings Bank, has resigned to take effect July 1, when he will become Assistant Secretary of the Wheeling Title and Trust Company, which will undertake a banking business. The directors of the Dollar bank last evening elected Frank B. Klieves to succeed Mr. Singleton. Mr. Klieves is now bookkeeper at the German bank. Mr. Singleton has made a valuable man, and the bank is sorry to lose him. It is thought Mr. Klieves will prove an equally acceptable man with experience.

A Good Act.

LONDON, June 15.—The Princess of Wales has started a subscription among the wives of army officers for the benefit of Mrs. Grimwood, in recognition of her heroic conduct during the recent trouble in Managua.
